

mill

miller

sons

father

ill

die

oldest youngest middle

This is where our story starts – inside a little mill.
The miller asks to see his sons,
because he's really ill.
"I'm dying, sons, there's not much time –
but what I have is yours.
William, you're the oldest,
so the mill is yours, of course."

"George, you take the donkey –
don't let it get too fat!
And Tom, my son, the youngest,
you can have my cat!"
"I know my father loves me.
I'm very sure of that.
But I need food and money,
and not a silly cat!"

look up

bring

a pair of boots

hat

coat

clever

The cat looks up at Tom and says,
"I'm not a silly cat!
Please bring me a pair of boots – and I need a coat and hat!"
"What a clever cat you are to talk to me like that!
I'm going to call you 'Puss in Boots'.
That's a good name for a cat!"