The TOEIC® (Test of English for International Communication) is a language proficiency test for non-native English speakers. The test is used by thousands of companies, schools, and organizations to assess a person's language ability in a work or industry setting, particularly for the purpose of recruiting the most qualified applicants.

The original test was comprised of only two components: Reading and Listening Comprehension. But the new version of the TOEIC® includes Writing and Speaking Components. Furthermore, some areas of the reading and listening components have been modified.

Below are the specifications for each part of the TOEIC® test.
